These are ideas for just some of the ways you can use these invitations, but they're all so versatile that each one can be used for many different occasions - have fun!

A Girl's Night Out!

Step 1

Print out the glass template (find it on page 5) and decorate it / color it in, using the style and colors you choose. If you're able to use an image editing software then you can have a lot more fun - for this particular example, using Adobe Photoshop, I chose a pattern overlay then applied a glass filter. Cut the glass shape out when you're finished (this invitation is just a single piece of board, you write on the back). Try to use a relatively thick board, 200gsm or more.

Step 2

Write the invitation details on the back of the glass. Since it's an interesting shape, you could get quite creative - instead of just writing in straight lines, try writing along the edges of the glass shape! Another alternative is: instead of decorating the front, write the invitation details on the front instead of the back, going along the edges!

Step 3

Get your toothpick and beads ready. Using a craft knife, you'll have to chip off a bit of the toothpick at one end to make it narrow enough to go through the beads. Then just glue them on using your favorite craft glue.

And now you're ready to party the night away – have fun!

Step 1

Print out the glove template (find it on page 6) onto either plain white board (I used 160 gsm and it was thick enough) or colored board, or even patterned board! You can even create your own design to be printed out if you do a bit of editing in an image editing software.

Step 2

Cut the glove shape out, fold the thumb over, and stick it down using flat double sided tape. Now you can have some fun adorning the wrist part! You could use beaded ribbon as I have in this example, or some other ideas are:
bright feathers from a boa
patterned/textured fabric pretty colored lace or something crocheted or even knitted a combination of all the above!

Step 3

Time to create the part that counts the most - the where and when of the party! I used the same board that the glove is printed onto, but I glued pretty gift wrap to the back of it. Again, there are so many different options to get creative with this, so use your imagination! This needs to be about 8 to 10 cm high, and as long as you like since it's going to be rolled up. Then simply tie it with a pretty piece of ribbon and tuck it into the thumb of the glove.

The Divas are now ready to rock!

Step 1

Print out the bag template (find it on page 7) onto either plain white board or patterned/colored board of your choice - I again used 160 gsm but you can use up to 200 gsm. Before you cut the shape out, you can turn your page over and print the invitation wording onto it, or you can choose to write that by hand.

Step 2

Cut a 15 cm piece of thin gauge wire, and thread the beads of your choice onto it, in any pattern or combination you like! This design works great with small and large beads, so go wild! Shape your handle, and at each end of the wire, bend the last 2 cm perpendicular to the rest.

Step 3

Bend your cut out bag at the two places indicated by the thin white break between the yellow - the top flap and the middle section. Don't bend the board completely flat, if you bend it kind of half way, your bag will retain a nice full shape instead of just being flat (bend in towards the side that will have the print on it, with the yellow at the back which will be the outside of the finished bag).

Step 4

With the inside of the bag facing you, stick the handle on at the fold of the top flap, as indicated in the above right picture. I used ordinary thick white craft glue, but if something else works better for you that's fine too, just try to make it as neat as possible (you could even stick a strip of board or fabric over this section to hide it).

Step 5

Almost done! Fold the bottom flap up and the top flap over that, sticking the top flap down with a pop dot or glue dot. Glue your feather and bead onto the tip of the top flap - I glued the feather first then the gem on top, but you could also thread a bead onto the quill of the feather instead.

Grab your bag and shop till you drop!
